2015 "Measure for Pleasure" at the Woolly Mammoth Theatre Company

Head downtown to the Woolly Mammoth Theatre Company with these two tickets to their production of "Measure for Pleasure," directed by Howard Shalwitz. Now in its 28th season, Woolly Mammoth Theatre Company continues to hold its place at theatre's leading edge. Woolly Mammoth is acknowledged as "Washington's Most Daring Theatre Company" (The New York Times), which should be clear from this production featuring "... a series of chaotic chases and couplings among a womanizer, a transvestite, a puritanical dame and a helplessly romantic valet. Richly endowed with mistaken identities and abundant verbal delights, Measure for Pleasure is a saucy, silly, foul and filthy treat."

Show runs May 26-June 29, 2008. Not valid Saturdays or during special events. Advance reservations required and subject to availability.

We are excited to have the services of qCheck allowing WTEF to quickly attach your Auction night purchases with our invoicing/ receipt software. At the Registration Desk, staff will swipe your credit card into the qCheck system. When you are the successful bidder of an Auction item, your credit card number will immediately be associated with the purchase of that item, thus increasing our efficiency the night of the Auction and following the Auction when records are reconciled. qCheck has very high layers of encryption security using the latest technology and your card will not be charged if you do not win an item or make a donation during the evening.

Several items will be sold via a Super Silent auction. Ballots for the Super Silent auction are available when you check-in, at the Super Silent table, and at the dining tables.

- Bidding begins at 6:00 p.m. and closes at approximately 9:00 p.m. when a last call announcement will be made and volunteers will collect final bids from the dining tables.
- All items for Super Silent items are listed on a single ballot bid sheet with a minimum bid and an increment/escalator amount.
- Each bidder may submit a ballot with bids for each item he or she wishes to bid for. Valid bid sheets must include bid number, signature, and a single bid for at least one item on the ballot. - For each item, the bid submitted is bidder's "maximum bid," i.e. the maximum amount the bidder is willing pay for the item when competing against other attendees.
- Bids may be submitted at the Super Silent auction table or to volunteers during dinner.
- Bids will be kept by auction staff members, who are not permitted to participate in the Super Silent auction. While bidding is open, bids will not be disclosed.
- Upon closing, for each item, the person with the highest bid will be the winner.
- If there is only one bid for the item, the sole bidder will win the item for the amount of the minimum bid plus the designated incremental increase/escalator or their maximum bid (whichever is lower). If there are multiple bids, the person who entered the highest bid will win the item for a sum equal to amount of the second-highest bid plus the increment/ escalator amount (up to but not exceeding the amount of the maximum bid.)
